7. Definition of Bribery and Corruption

- (a) Bribery refers to the act of offering, giving, promising, asking, agreeing, receiving, accepting or soliciting something of value or of an advantage so to induce or influence an action or decision, that the recipient would otherwise not offer. A bribe refers to any inducement, reward or object/item of value offered to another individual in order to gain or retain commercial, contractual, regulatory or personal business or advantage which constitutes “improper performance”. Bribery is not limited to the act of offering a bribe. If an individual is on the receiving end of a bribe and they accept it, they are also breaking the law.
- (b) Improper performance means performance which amounts to a breach of an expectation that a person will act in good faith, impartially, or in accordance with a position of trust. Offences apply to bribery relating to any function of a public nature, connected with a business, performed in the course of a person’s employment or performed on behalf of a company or another body of persons. Therefore, bribery in both the public and private sectors is covered.
- (c) Corruption is the abuse of entrusted power or position to obtain a personal gain or benefit. It refers to the act of soliciting, giving, promising to give, offering, accepting or receiving gratification, directly or indirectly, to/from a person in authority either in the form of money, services, favours, discount, wage, reward, vote, bonus, positions or valuable goods as an inducement or reward to or not to do an act in relation to the person’s principal affairs or function.
- (d) Gratification refers to ‘something of value’ which includes, but not limited to money, donation, gift, loan, fee, reward, valuable security, information, property or interest in property, contract of employment or services, payment or release of any loan, obligation or other liability, any valuable consideration of any kind, any other service or favour of any description, offer, undertaking or promise, rebate, discount, and agreement to give employment or render services in any capacity. Bribery and corruption (collectively “corrupt gratification”) are illegal. Employees and/or associated persons must not engage in any form of corrupt gratification, whether it be directly or through a third party (such as an agent or distributor). They must not bribe a foreign public official anywhere in the world. They must not accept bribes in any degree and if they are uncertain about whether something is a bribe, a gift or act of hospitality, they must seek further advice from their HOD.

(e) The following represent examples of actions constituting Bribery / Corruption.

i. Offering a bribe

You offer potential client tickets to a major sporting event, but only if they agree to do business with CIMB Thai. This would be an offence as you are making the offer to secure a commercial and contractual appointment. CIMB Thai may also be found to have committed an offence because the offer has been made to obtain business for it. It may also be an offence for the potential client to accept your offer.

ii. Receiving a bribe

A supplier gives your nephew a job but makes it clear that in return they (the supplier) expect you to use your influence in CIMB Thai to ensure CIMB Thai continue to do business with them. It is an offence for a supplier to make such an offer. It would be an offence for you to accept the offer as you would be doing so to gain a personal advantage.

iii. Bribing a foreign official

You arrange for the business to make an additional payment to a foreign official to speed up an administrative process, such as clearing CIMB Thai’s goods through customs. The offence of bribing a foreign official has been committed as soon as the offer is made. This is because it is made to gain a business advantage for CIMB Thai. CIMB Thai may also be found to have committed an offence.

iv. Corporate bribery offence

Failing to prevent bribery committed by associated persons on behalf of the company.

v. Kickbacks from vendor

The vendor also violates the Vendor Code of Conduct which expressly prohibits any form of corruption / bribery to influence CIMB Thai’s decision making.

vi. Bribing using entertainment

You organize a lavish banquet dinner with entertainment to the board of directors of a potential corporate client. The intention is to get the client to agree to do business with CIMB Thai. This would be an offence as the event was organized in order to induce the potential client to establish business relations with the Group.
